Violence as Principles of Marxism
By Slavoj Zizek

I. Power, Ideology and Ideology Critique – News of Far rights in Latin America, Sunnism in Arab countries and even Lumpen Power in Europe

In fact power develops its pole of power in society, what I call the simple anarchism of Sirohi is to divide between la police which keeps attacking the right in Europe and in America perhaps which then develops the economic power of the far right as well. This I call a double-bind in Europe – attack the right seeming to free the people which actually becomes constitute power for the right and enslave the people as well.

In Arab countries this becomes public sector power meant to free Iran or say Egypt with Arab socialism then also in Iraq develops the double bind peasant enslavement and mass Sunnism in the countryside and towns which then is attacked by police to do more enslavement of the peasant at the expense of Sunni attacked which means that one will develop not politics now but economic private businesses which then organizes its agricultural surplus.

Unlivable then the American condition of white economics which develops the clear double-bind of strengthening white power and attacking the black power and racist developments all across America except New York which enslaves all other cities and Denver.

II. Violence as Present response

In fact India, Algeria and Cuba finally Mao’s return to China, all under Sirohian vanguard develop violence as measure which then frees them to utopia – the double-bind here is to strengthen capital and public capital but to give it to use-value and the poor which I call a development of utopia – that finance develops as people are liberated – which means correct economics for the poorest being the dynamic production process for the capitalists which then get notions also from the leader Sirohi.

Even deprived of notions, the dynamic demand boom would then push the wage high even as capitalists would exchange ideas with the Left and Congress to produce a exchange high with limited supply and commodities which means prices are high which would amount to high and niche markets. Like an Apple I phone culture then to attack the middle class right which has happened already.